Our small classes ensure that you receive individual attention and support along with the ability to communicate with your peers to discuss activities and assessments.

You will be mentored by specialist Educators who are experienced practicing Interior Designers and Decorators. They will guide you through your studies and ensure that you stay on track. You will have access to the latest interior design trends, suppliers and industry practices via our state of the art eCampus.
How you will study

Your Educator will support you through your online journey via email, phone and online video chat. They bring a wealth of industry experience to ensure that you get the best from your study.

- The units of study are broken down into interactive and practical sessions.
- Factsheets provide the supporting information you need to know about each topic and a downloadable workbook has all of your activities.
- Key concepts are reinforced using PowerPoint presentations, videos and webinars.

Support from your classmates will be available in online forums where you can share advice and discuss projects. Small class groups mean that you can really connect and collaborate with your fellow students to broaden your knowledge base.

Your new skills will be applied to projects which are then assessed by your teacher. The assessments are progressive as you move through the course and include research assignments, eQuizzes along with practical hands-on projects to inspire your creativity.

Your major project involves working through a real life brief and consolidates all of your learning. The project starts with the initial client brief and works through to a final presentation - just like you would in the real world.

We encourage you to attend as many external trade shows and exhibitions as possible while you’re studying. Get to know all of the local suppliers in your area, collect samples and gather product references. This will not only assist you with your assessments, but help build an invaluable network of resources for when you graduate.
